Allies and Reds Ready to Open Cease-Fire Talks

MOVE TO END STATE OF WAR IN GERMANY

Washington, July 9.—(AP)—President Truman asked congress today to end the state of war between the United States and Germany. He said that unfortunately Russia had made a final peace settlement impossible at this time.

Mr. Truman's action was part of a coordinated move by the western Allies. The French cabinet approved a decree to the same end and although it was not clear whether it was effective immediately or must await the formation of a new cabinet in the next few days.

Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison announced to the house of commons that Britain's state of war with Germany was ended as from today.

Three members of the British commonwealth—acting in advance—ended their state of war with the Germans. They were Australia, New Zealand and South Africa. New Zealand also announced the end of its state of war with Austria.

The move was of major importance in the east-west battle for the minds and support of the German people.

It also has some practical advantages for the Germans although it will not end the occupation by the western powers.

With the state of war at an end, Germans will be able to travel or do business in the United States as nationals of a friendly government rather than as enemy aliens.

Also Germans will be able to bring suits in U. S. courts.

Specifically, Mr. Truman asked that congress adopt a resolution declaring the state of war with Germany shall be terminated at such date as the president proclaims.

This country has been in a state of war with Germany since Dec. 11, 1941.

The president's request was made in identical letters to the presiding officers of the senate and house—Vice President Barkley and Speaker Rayburn.

The communication hit repeatedly at Russia, thus emphasizing the psychological importance of the move.

Assembly Looks to Series Of "Patchwork" Taxes as a Substitute for Fine Program

Harrisburg, July 9.—(AP)—The general assembly looked today to a series of "patchwork" taxes as a possible substitute for the disputed state income tax.

The proposed alternate tax program commanded chief attention as lawmakers returned after a week's vacation.

A senate Republican compromise tax committee called a noon meeting to whip the alternate program into final form for presentation later in the day to the tax-torn senate Republican caucus.

The compromise committee, consisting of four administration supporters and four income tax opponents, was set up after senate Republicans deadlocked over the controversial income tax proposal.

Gov. John S. Fine recommended the one-half of one per cent income tax to help balance his $1,220,000,000 state budget for the next two years. The income tax passed the house but ran into a stonewall of opposition in the senate where it has been stalemate for weeks.

Sen. James S. Berger (R-Potter) Republican caucus chairman, and head of the compromise committee, said if the committee's taxing recommendations are approved by the senate Republican caucus, the plan will be sent to house leaders for consideration.

The alternate program includes such proposals as revival of the lapsed soft drinks tax and increasing the levy from one to two cents a bottle as well as taxing cigars and tobacco for the first time and increasing existing taxes (Turn to Page Seven)

Controls Needed To Avert Inflation Johnston Warns

Washington, July 9.—(AP)—Eric Johnston told the nation today to look for "a much cheaper dollar"—worth perhaps 30 to 40 cents in 1939 terms—if economic controls are scrapped.

Declaring that the dollar is now worth about 53 to 54 cents in 1939 value, Johnston said "my guess is that it might be worth between 30 and 40 cents in 1939 purchasing power, in ten years, if you don't do something about inflation."

Johnston, in a copyrighted interview with the Magazine U. S. News and World Report, predicted a government deficit this year of from $5,000,000,000, to $7,000,000,000.

Publication of the interview coincided with the beginning of tentative voting in the house on amendments to a bill which would extend the present wage, price and economic controls.

Controversy over the controls program has flared into a nationwide political fight. The administration is bringing its heaviest artillery to bear on an opposition drive to cut controls sharply or do away with them altogether.

President Truman has asked for increased powers over the nation's economy to speed the defense effort and check inflation.

His top mobilization officer, Charles E. Wilson, is scheduled to make a "major policy speech" by radio and television tonight.

Grand Jury Probes Are Frowned Upon By State Official

Bedford Springs, July 9.—(AP)—State Attorney General Robert E. Woodside told Pennsylvania district attorneys attending an annual convention here that grand jury investigations should be restricted to infrequent.

The former Dauphin county common pleas court judge declared he is a great believer in home rule and considers it a drastic action warranted only by unusual circumstances when the attorney general supercedes a district attorney.

Woodside, who succeeded Charles J. Margiotti as the state's highest law enforcement officer, added: "I shall not do it unless, and until I am convinced of the necessity."

At a business meeting preceding Woodside's address Saturday, the association refused to pay $500 to two officials to prepare legislation boosting county officials' salaries.

The company officials are William S. Livengood, state secretary of internal affairs, and his private law partner, Joseph Nissley, secretary of the state pardon board. A group of statewide county officials associations recently decided on the $500 assessments after retaining Livengood and Nissley to draft pending legislation at Harrisburg.

U. S. Correspondents Claim Enemy Gains Propaganda March in Ban at Kaesong

Seoul, Korea, July 9.—(AP)—United Nations war correspondents, angered at being banned from yesterday's preliminary peace talks at Kaesong while Communist correspondents attended, declared today the enemy had stolen a propaganda march.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Allied supreme commander, indicated to newsmen tonight that they would not be represented at the opening session of the full-scale peace talks tomorrow. They might be at later sessions, however.

Earlier, public information officers recommended that 16 newsmen, photographers and broadcasters be taken to Kaesong to cover the negotiations.

When asked if he could assure the correspondents that the western newsmen would not be kept out while Communist reporters were allowed at the session, Ridgway said:

"We'll see that we get everything we can."

In outlining his position to the angry correspondents, Ridgway said "x x x" the issues are too great to prejudice failure and breakup."

The Army's censorship of the status of Kaesong also aroused a storm among the correspondents. The military has referred to Kaesong as being in a no-man's land, leaving the impression it was in an open city.

Six Deaths and Heavy Property Damage Result From Hard Storms in Midwest

By The Associated Press
Wind-whipped rain and hail hit the midwest Sunday, causing six deaths and heavy property damage.

Severe storms hit parts of Iowa, Minnesota, Michigan, Missouri and Kansas but in Wisconsin practically the whole state felt the blows of wild weather.

Five deaths occurred in Michigan. An 83-year-old man died of a heart attack when the storm blew over a barn on the Rockfield, Wis., farm where he lived.

In Wisconsin, winds, lightning, rain and hail caused damage expected to exceed $1,000,000.

Communities in the northern part of Iowa were hit by a series of hard rains and high winds. Many farm buildings were damaged and power and telephone lines were out.

Central Minnesota took a good dousing with St. Cloud reporting 2.14 inches of rain in less than an hour. A 55-mile-an-hour wind grounded wires and knocked down trees and signs in St. Paul and Minneapolis.

At Leavenworth, Kas., a heavy downpour sent Five-Mile Creek out of its banks and flooded many homes. A windstorm disrupted communications and four minor fires were started by short circuits at Emporia.

Heavy showers and thunderstorms stretched along a 150 mile wide band from northeastern Iowa to northern Ohio.

Hot and humid weather prevailed from the Gulf states to New England and it was hot and dry in the southwest.

Police Conduct Extensive Traffic Controls in Borough Over Weekend

City police conducted extensive traffic patrols over the weekend with 20 arrests for various motor vehicle violations. One was for reckless driving as the result of a two car accident on Madison avenue Friday afternoon, when N. Laird Byers, of Summerville DR 1, was charged.

Cars operated by Summerville and Emmet J. Henry, Jr., of Sheffield, collided at Madison and Irvine about 2:45 p. m. Injured in the crash was Margaret Pierce, 34, of Brookville RD 4, who was admitted at Warren General Hospital with a fractured collar bone, chest bruises and shock. She was discharged Saturday. Also, John A. Johnson, of Clarendon RD, suffered head bruises.

According to the police report, the accident occurred when Byers, driving north on Irvine street, failed to stop for the stop sign at Madison and struck the Henry car, 15 west on Madison, causing it to go over the curb and come to a stop on a lawn. Damage to Henry's car was estimated at $200; and to Byers' car about $300.

Other traffic arrests included 14 for driving too fast for conditions, three traffic light arrests, and two stop sign arrests. Police said that all arrests for too fast driving were made at speeds in excess of 60 miles per hour.

Officers also worked with the state dog catcher, who was in town over the weekend, and answered many complaints. One arrest was made.

Early Saturday morning, officers were called to the Pennsylvania Railroad station where a man was observed lying along the tracks. They found a 71-year-old hobo who had bedded down for the night, and removed him to the city lockup.

At 9:30 p. m. yesterday, police were notified that an unknown person had fired a shot through the home of Councilman Stewart Kuhre, Biddle street. Officers are investigating, but are of the opinion it was a stray bullet.

Personal Message Sent By President To Iran's Premier

Tehran, Iran, July 9.—(AP)—President Truman sent a personal message today to Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadegh, reportedly again urging moderation in the Middle East country's oil dispute with Britain.

"A little late," was the comment by the nationalization-minded premier to U. S. Ambassador Henry F. Grady when Grady handed over his president's message.

Grady declined to disclose the contents of the note, but other sources described it as another appeal for coolness in the dispute which threatens to close down the world's largest refinery at Abadan.

The American diplomat said Mossadegh would make public the president's message later today. Although its contents were not immediately disclosed, official quarters exhibited little hope that it would produce a last minute solution to the deadlock between Britain and Iran over nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian oil company's properties.

Grady reported to newsmen that Mossadegh said Mr. Truman's letter was answered in effect by a statement the cabinet plans to issue later today regarding the international court of justice's order calling for a curb on nationalization pending further negotiations.

"I don't see how it (the letter) will have any effect, because we have already made our decision on the world court," Grady said Mossadegh told him.

Ridgway Warns There Is No Guarantee Peace Will Come From Armistice Negotiations

Seoul, Korea, July 9.—(AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway warned tonight there was no real guarantee that peace in Korea will come from the armistice negotiations opening tomorrow in Kaesong.

With the start of cease-fire talks only hours away, Ridgway said: "Whether there is to be good faith or not is only to be judged by performance, and we haven't come to the performance stage x x x. Agreement on an armistice must precede a cessation of hostilities."

The supreme commander was addressing correspondents on news coverage of the full scale negotiations. The correspondents have demanded western press representation at the historic event.

Ridgway indicated there would be no western newsmen at tomorrow's session—but that there might be at later sessions.

He disclosed that he personally selected the five United Nations peace envoys and that he reserved the right "to change the delegates at any time."

Earlier Monday Ridgway flew to Seoul from Tokyo with three of his envoys. Shortly thereafter they travelled by light planes to the advanced "peace camp" near Munsan, where the other two members of the delegation were waiting.

Ridgway gave his envoys their final instructions, then returned to Seoul.

The peace camp is only a few minutes by air from Kaesong, the ancient capital where an end may be found for the Korean war, now in its 55th week.

The talks probably will begin about 10 a. m. Tuesday (7 p. m. Monday, EST).

Vice Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief Allied delegate, will confer with Ridgway at the end of each day's session. Joy is commander, U. S. Naval forces in Korean waters.

Other Allied representatives are Maj. Gen. L. C. Craigie, U. S. Air Force; Maj. Gen. Henry I. Hodges, deputy chief of staff, U. S. Eighth Army; Rear Adm. Arleigh A. (31 Knots) Burke, U. S. Navy, and Maj. Gen. Paik Sun Yup, Republic of Korea Army.

The advance base is a comfortable tent city set up in an old apple orchard. Individual tents have been prepared for the Allied negotiators and other ranking U. N. officials.

The envoys declined to discuss their historic mission with newsmen.

Joy and Craigie carried bulging briefcases to the peace camp.

Ridgway was accompanied to the camp by Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U. S. Eighth Army commander. Van Fleet met the Ridgway party in Seoul. He said he only wanted to discuss "Eighth Army business" with the supreme commander. Ridgway said Van Fleet was being kept "fully informed" on the cease-fire situation.

Shortly after landing at the advance base, Ridgway and Van Fleet moved away from the negotiators and chatted together briefly while seated on a mound of dirt bordering the airstrip.

Of the envoys, only Burke wore any campaign ribbons.

A Peiping radio broadcast, monitored in Tokyo, said the Communist delegates had returned from the preliminary talks Sunday at Kaesong. It reported full scale (Turn to Page Seven)

Red Counterattack Halts Allied Drive Against Mt. Taeu

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, July 9.—(AP)—Allied troops storming Mount Taeu on the east-central front were driven back today by determined Red counterattacks.

The United Nations soldiers started their pincers attack on the mountain stronghold Sunday morning. Twelve hours later they neared their objective, 12 air miles northeast of Yanggu.

The Reds hammered back with mortars, small arms, automatic weapons and machineguns.

The Allies withdrew.

The action highlighted an otherwise comparatively quiet day along the front as time drew near for peace talks to begin in Red-held Kaesong.

No ground action was reported from the Kaesong area.

Allied F-86 Sabre jets shot down a Russian-made MIG-15 jet in northwestern Korea Monday.

Three other MIGs were destroyed and two were damaged in an air battle Sunday.

Associated Press Correspondent George MacArthur, reporting from the east-central front, said one arm of the U. N. pincers was stalled east of Mount Taeu. Fighting continued there all day Monday, he said, but not as intensively as the battle south of the mountain.

Wearing Army Khaki Governor Dewey Tours Frontlines Above the Parallel

A Front Line Command Post, Korea, July 9.—(AP)—Thomas E. Dewey toured the frontlines of Korea today.

Wearing Army khaki, combat boots and a green field cap, the New York governor hopped between command posts and advanced positions on the west, central and east-central fronts.

At some points Dewey was north of the 38th parallel, old political boundary between north and south Korea.

On the western and east-central fronts he flew over Red territory. Allied artillery was firing when he arrived on the western front.

He also heard the thunderous fire of 105 mm artillery when he visited the U. S. First Marine Division late in the day.

Dewey began his second day on this war shattered peninsula at the war room of U. S. Eighth Army headquarters. He sat in on a regular briefing with Lt. Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander.

The briefing lasted an hour—twice its usual length.

The governor wound up the day at U. S. Tenth Corps Headquarters. A blue-helmeted Army band greeted him with "Side-walks of New York."

He inspected an honor guard of U. S. and South Korean troops before he had dinner with the corps commander, Lt. Gen. Edward M. Almond, and his staff.

Dewey stood by as the field artillery dropped shells into the area north of Chorwon, western anchor of the old Red iron triangle.

Former Tiger Star Is Dead in Detroit

Detroit, July 9.—(AP)—Harry Edwin Heilmann, former Detroit Tigers star for 17 years, died today.

Heilmann, 56, starred for the Detroit Tigers from 1914 to 1929 and later played outfield for the Cincinnati Reds.

He won the American League batting championship in 1921, 1923, 1925 and 1927. He started broadcasting Detroit Tigers games in 1934.

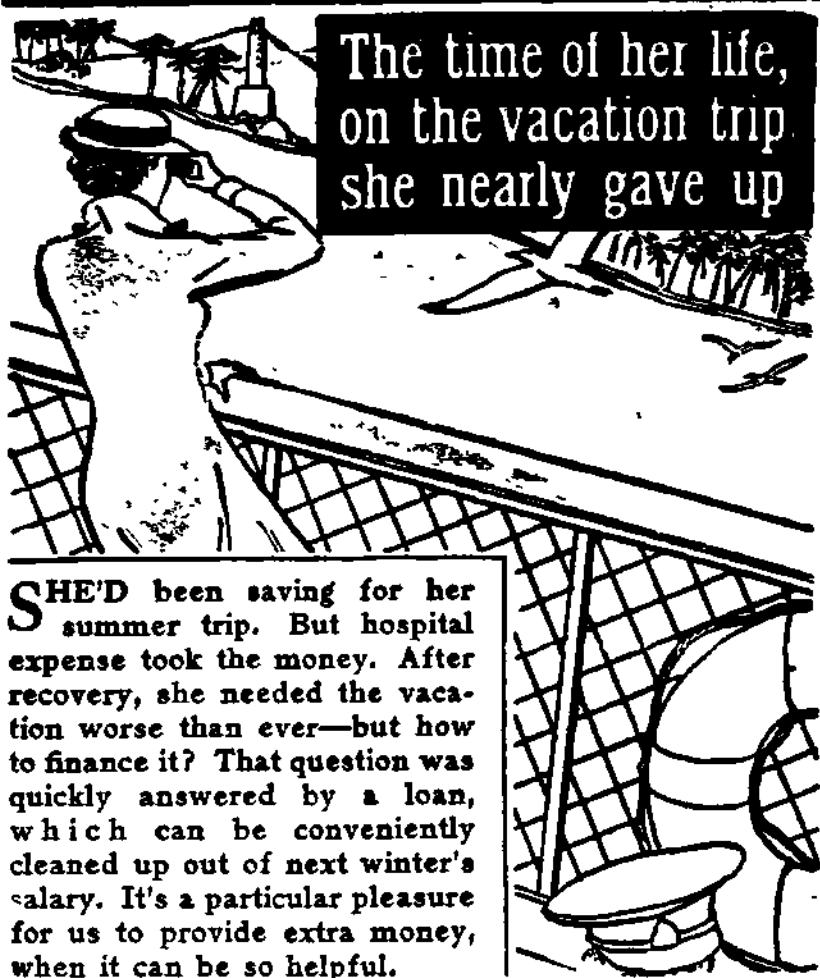

He built up a great following among Michigan radio fans. This spring he was hospitalized during spring training at Lakeland, Fla., in March.

On the last balloting for baseball's hall of fame at Cooperstown, N. Y., Heilmann got 136 votes—17 short of that needed for election.

14-Year-Old Boy In Columbus Twp. Takes Own Life

Services were held this afternoon at the Bracken-Keating Funeral Home in Corry in memory of Robert Nelson, aged 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Nelson, of Baker Hill, Columbus township, who met a tragic death by shooting himself in the head with a 30-30 rifle at the family home early Friday afternoon while his mother and father were in Erie, with a number of his young brothers and sisters.

A crumpled note found in one of the pockets of his trousers added a tragic touch to the shooting, after investigating officials were inclined to believe that the death may have been accidental. The note scribbled on the front page of a small tablet, said: "Good bye forever, to everybody, Bob."

In the light of this development, Coroner Ed Lowrey of Warren, issued a certificate of death by suicide. Members of his family could give no reason for the rash act. They said the youth had been in excellent health, was happy, good natured and only last month had been promoted from the eighth grade and would have entered high school in Corry this fall.

His body was found Friday afternoon by a 16-year-old sister, Mary Lou, slumped in the rocking chair in the living room of their rural home five miles east of Columbus.

At first it was surmised the youngster had been cleaning the rifle and had been killed accidentally as the slug tore away the top of his head.

It wasn't until the note was found at the Bracken-Keating Funeral Home that what appeared to be a tragic accident was ruled otherwise.

Born in Columbus township on January 28, 1937, the youth attended the Columbus schools through the eighth grade. One of ten children, he is survived by, in addition to his parents, five sisters, Mrs. Leslie Upperman, Columbus, R. D. 1, Mrs. Charles Van Winkle, Corry, Mary Lou, Connie and Gertrude, all at home; four brothers, Edward, with the U. S. Army in Germany, Donald, James and Harry C., all at home, and a number of other relatives.

Three Kane Area Youths Hospitalized After Auto Crash

Three Kane area young men were injured, one possibly critically, when a 1939 car, driven at a high rate of speed, left the highway and was wrecked east of Kane on route 219 about 9:30 o'clock Friday night.

Neil Schloppy, 16, who said he was operator of the car, a 1939 LaSalle purchased on the previous day for $200 by his brother Clifford, was removed from Kane Community hospital to Hamot hospital in Erie for treatment of a fractured skull, fractured jaw and other head injuries.

Admitted to the hospital were Robert Hadfield, 18, and his brother Richard, 16, both having severe head and face lacerations. Conditions were listed as fair today.

State police from the Kane sub station said Schloppy would be charged with reckless driving. Investigation disclosed that the car had been driven in a reckless manner in Kane prior to the accident, narrowly missing upsets at the Greaves-Edgar and Greaves-Biddle street intersections.

Police said the machine had been purchased by Clifford Schloppy and had a temporary license dated July 6. It was reduced to junk in the accident which occurred near the Williams Garage at East Kane.

COMES OUT EVEN
According to figures from the office of Recorder Don Schuler, at the Court House, there were 62 marriage licenses issued during June, exactly the same number as in June of 1950. Deputy Recorder Eleanor Smith said also that the total number of licenses issued the first six months of this year was almost even with the number during 1950 in the same period.

Emergencies Are Treated at the Warren General

Seven emergencies were treated at Warren General Hospital over the weekend, mostly accidents involving youngsters.

PENNSYLVANIA GAS COMPANY

Action Postponed Indefinitely On Project in Corry

Corry Journal: At the request of officials of the Emblem Oil Co. of Warren, the Corry Zoning Board has postponed indefinitely action on the oil firm's request to build a new and modern service station at the southeast corner of Columbus avenue and North Center street.

Monday the board received a letter from the firm and later in the day Attorney James Frantz of Warren discussed the application personally with members of the board.

In the letter the company guaranteed to remove the present service station on the southwest corner of the intersection and retain ownership of the property for one year in order to assure that another gasoline firm would not be able to establish a service station there without an appeal to the Zoning Board.

A provision in the two-year-old zoning ordinance states that any business site in a residential section where the business is discontinued for one year or more the enterprise cannot be renewed without an appeal.

Attorney Frantz in his discussion with the board said the company is requesting the additional time in order to more carefully prepare and present its appeal.

As the situation was left Saturday, the board will notify the firm of the date of its next hearing and the request will be considered then.

The board has been noticeably hesitant in acting on the appeal since it closely parallels a similar request of the Atlantic gasoline firm which had applied for permission to erect a service station on the old Corry Hospital site.

In other action taken at a Zoning Board meeting last night the request of Donald Nantes to construct a home on William street closer to the sidewalk line than the zoning measure permits was approved.

FOREST CO. ROBBERIES

State police at Tionesta are investigating four break-ins in Forest county which occurred early Friday morning. The Endeavor post office was entered but no postal receipts were taken. The place broken into was the May Jones store which is combined with the post office. Other establishments burglarized were the A. A. Goodwill store and the G. R. Johnson service station in East Hickory, also the Robert Caseretti store in Tionesta. Entrance was gained by forcing doors and windows.

BUYING PROPERTY

Titusville Herald: The Quaker State Oil Refining Corporation was a sizeable producer in the Kane-to-Butler district of the Pennsylvania fields before it worked up an appetite for oil last year. In two big bites, taken almost a year apart to the day, it has grown into a giant of a Middle District producer. On July 7, 1950, it swallowed all the Pennsylvania interest of the Cities Service Oil Company. July 5, 1951, it gobbled everything on the Northern Ordinance plate. Lumped together, those mouthfuls gave Quaker State 5,603 oil, gas and pressure wells; an estimated 830 barrels of daily production; and 38,036 acres of holdings. The figures do not include what Quaker State had before, nor do they include what was obtained from Cities Service in the Bradford field and in Ohio.

KANE MAN DROWNS

Fred George, 22, of New Kensington and one-time resident of Kane, was washed overboard from a steamer on Lake Superior Friday afternoon and was presumed drowned, according to word received last night by Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Harding, Kane. The young man, a senior at Westminster college, was working as a seaman during summer vacation from school and was reported to have been swept overboard while standing deck watch on the S. S. Bethlehem. A spokesman for the Bethlehem Transportation company, owner of the steamer, said only fragmentary report has been received of the accident and that the Coast Guard from Cleveland is investigating. The accident occurred about 36 miles northwest of White Fish point just west of the Sault Ste. Marie. George's mother was the former Gladys Cuveller of Kane.

PLANS CELEBRATION

West Homestead will celebrate their 50th anniversary of its incorporation with a week long series of events starting July 15th and running through to July 22nd. The official opening will be held on Sunday night, July 15th on the Pontiac Lot in West Homestead with several speakers, music, etc. A group of some 31 committees have been busy engaged during the past six months preparing for this great event. An historical book will be available within the next week, which includes within its covers the complete history of the town, its many industries, service organizations, and many highly interesting pictures, some of which date back to the days before West Homestead was incorporated, while others are of the present day variety. An invitation is extended to all former residents, relatives and friends to attend this week long celebration and join in the festivities.

Seventh Well in Carter Hill Area Planned by Pa. Gas

Corry Journal: Definite assurances that the Pennsylvania Gas Company will drill at least one more well in the Carter Hill district came from a top official of the utility.

A statement that the company will put down another well came after the spokesman for the concern said the second successful well which was brought in last week is still able to produce an estimated output of 250,000 cubic feet daily.

At the same time he stated the well, although it apparently is tapping the same underground pool of natural gas as the first successful well, has not cut into the flow from the first test drilling.

He further explained that the first well is shut off for the warmer summer months but a check has shown that the pressure did not fall off after the second well came in.

PGC officials are still undecided on whether the second hole will be shot with nitro-glycerine in an attempt to bring in a stronger flow. Although no definite decision has been made, it was indicated that if the well holds to the 250,000 cubic foot production it likely won't be shot. If the flow should decline, however, in an effort to create a stronger flow the explosive may be used.

While no site has been picked for the seventh well, of which only two are producers, to be drilled in the Carter Hill district, it was stated that it will definitely be within a few hundred feet of the two successful drillings.

Chapter 27

LEIGHTON took his hand in a warm, hard clasp, and Jigger stared at his host curiously. The man's surprising cordiality seemed natural and unaffected.

"Scotch and soda?" Leighton asked.

Jigger nodded, accepting the pace set by his host.

Leighton finished a thirsty swallow, then said, "I realized who you were soon after you left. I remembered seeing your name in the newspaper." He smiled.

"Since then I've also made inquiries about you."

"From my critics, or my admirers?"

"There were both," Leighton said. "Jigger Moran—your name evoked some quite surprising responses—I had no idea you were an al—Manhattan institution."

A moment later, Leighton asked, "Have you been to the police?"

"Not yet," Jigger said.

"I'm glad that I hoped you'd first come back to see me again."

Jigger eyed his host curiously. "Why so?"

"Why so?" Leighton asked. "You changed you so in the space of a few hours?"

"Your determination, for one thing. Frankly, it frightens me."

Leighton met Jigger's eyes unwaveringly. "And too, that photograph you found in my file cabinet."

"You mean the photograph of Susan Hunter, alias Sally Woods, and alias Anne Brown?"

Leighton's cheeks were busy; it seemed an effort to not.

Jigger asked quietly, "Did you murder Susan Hunter?"

"That's unfair, Jigger; dishonest, haphazard for the factual follow, people say you are."

Jigger said coolly, "Shall I build an argument for it? He watched Leighton's cheeks work, and the corners of his mouth droop.

to the ex-lover of the murdered girl. A meeting of minds in blackmail generally means guilt on the part of the one who pays."

Leighton said, "Guilt, yes. But not of murder."

"What then?"

"Indiscretion, and stupidity," Leighton looked at Jigger. "You don't believe me?"

"You haven't told me anything."

Leighton said, "In confidence?"

Jigger shook his head.

"If it gets out, it's the end of my career, of me."

Jigger said unyieldingly, "Only at your own risk, Leighton. Withhold your story, and I'll get it some other way, from some other source."

Leighton said slowly, "All right. Ask your questions."

"No questions; you just talk."

Leighton drained his glass like a man seeking a crutch. He refilled it, then sat down. "A girl using the signature 'Terri' wrote to me, seeking advice and help. The case caught my interest, and I invited her to come for an interview." His eyes looked momentarily blind. "She sat in the same chair you're in now, the first time I saw her."

"When was this?"

"Three, maybe four months ago."

"Go on."

"Her problem was so unusual, so dramatic, that I persuaded her to also tell it to my radio audience. Leighton tugged nervously at the bow of his tie. "I'll not deny that I felt the story was a natural one for publicity, dramatic enough to stimulate a flood of listener telegrams and letters—"

JIGGER got up and made himself a drink. Leighton continued, "And that's what happened. The morning after the broadcast, the story of Terri's life in every radio column, elsewhere in the newspaper. More than fifteen thousand letters and telegrams poured in, offering advice, free legal aid, other help. And money too, cash gifts to the girl, poured in—I think the sum came to about $3000."

"What was her story?"

"About a despotic father—sordid bits about boys and her father's brutal rage. About a forced marriage to an insane cousin—And then, her fight and subsequent attempts on her life. In one such attempt, she had been beaten and hurled off a bridge by a brute in her father's hire. A fishing boat rescued her, and from then on she decided never to accept that was to let her attackers think her dead. Her father, so believing despite the unexplainable absence of a body washed ashore by the river, spread the story of her death, and manufactured proofs about how she had died and where, to substantiate it. There was an estate involved, and this was his scheme to seize it."

"Why didn't she go to the police?"

"Fear. Fear as you cannot imagine. In her hysteria, she let all policemen with the brute who had thrown her from the bridge—Her attacker was a policeman in her home town."

"What did she expect of you?"

Leighton considered it for a moment. "Someone to talk to mainly. She had a superior, pushing her into insanity, and suicide."

"Why didn't you go to the police on her behalf?"

"The police came to me after the broadcast. But the girl had disappeared."

Leighton nodded. "She'd given me a false address. All names used were fictitious; we had no clue to her true identity."

"Okay, what then?"

City; meditation by Pastor David Carlson of Warren.

In connection with the Holy Communion service at the Mission church, the pastor gave the meditation; Leroy Wetherill gave a musical selection; Mary Wetherill, two vocal numbers. During the Sunday school hour, Miss Wetherill gave an interesting flannel-graph and Mr. Wetherill played on the musical saw. In the evening, Miss Wetherill, missionary allied with Israel's Hope in New York City, showed slides of her work among the Jewish people; and with Mr. Wetherill gave several musical numbers; Mrs. Herman Davidson and Miss Wetherill sang a duet.

Gail Olson, Jack and Larry Gilfert were the committee for the Luther League meeting conducted by President Curtiss Nelson. Ronald Gilfert gave a reading, and refreshments were served. The next meeting will be a winter roast at Wildcat Park July 26, with Leaguers from Sheffield invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Olson and family are here from St. Paul, Minn., to visit relatives in Ludlow and other communities.

Mrs. Arthur Munson and children, of Apollo, are vacationing at the Emil Erickson home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Nystrom, Joyce and Betty Nystrom, motor to Chanute Air Force Base in Illinois to visit Pfc. William C. Nystrom, better known to his friends as "Chuck."

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lawson and sons, of Lansing, Mich., have been guests at the E. W. Johnson home.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl E. Olson, Compton, Calif., are spending the summer in the east, Mr. Olson taking an advanced course at Penn State.

Mr. Homer Holt, Akron, O., has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. B. K. Connelly.

Allen Nelson, principal of grade schools in Lenoir, N. C., is enjoying a short vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Nelson.

Judy Swanson is spending two weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Julius Swanson in Meadville.

Linda Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Johnson, Erie, has returned home after vacationing at the Charles Fetzke home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gardner are vacationing with relatives in Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Carlson, Pittsburgh, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gust Carlson.

Linda Baker, Kane, is the guest of Alexandra Connelly.

Chapter 28

"In two weeks, the police lost interest. They dismissed it as a hoax, or the wild imaginings of a madwoman. And as interest waned, I forgot about it too. And then one day, she got in touch with me again. She wanted to see me personally, but only if I would guarantee that she wouldn't be molested that she could come and go freely and anonymously."

Leighton took a long swallow of water, then said, "I said yes. We met in a small restaurant. After that, I made my second mistake—the real mistake—I promised to see her again, on the same basis."

Leighton began to pace up and down restlessly with his drink in his hand. "The girl was infatuated with me. And being neurotic as she was, that was the character of her attachment to me. I wasn't just a man to her—Leighton paused, reddening. "A man involved in an extra-marital intrigue. I was a god, a superior somebody who would give her strength, and wisdom, and courage. At first, I didn't fully realize the insane basis of her attachment to me—When I did realize it, it was too late—I could no longer detach myself."

Jigger said, "How'd you come out to get involved in the first place—You, the envied husband of the belle of the society pages?"

"It lanced, deep into the flesh, Leighton flushed. "That's below the belt, Jigger."

"But in earnest, you're famous. In the big money, with a wife out of a story book—By all counts, the fellow who should be immune to the urge to philander."

Leighton studied Jigger gravely. "I'll answer that. I'm not in love with my wife, and I can never be. We're a union of deceptions, lies, surfaces. She's rich, too rich; and too well born. She only knows the invention I've made of myself. If she ever discovered my true origin—"Leighton disfigured his mouth—"She'd scream at the bed I was born in; faint dead away at the sight of the woman who bore me."

Jigger was moved to say softly, "So, success paid off—Only it didn't."

Leighton said simply, "It's a trap."

"And Susan Hunter—What was her appeal for you?"

"She was real. Sick, yes, but without a single superficiality it was as easy to be close to Susan as it was hard to be close to my own wife. Also, I wanted desperately to help her, save her—She touched something in me, something as deep as a forgotten guilt—"Leighton raised his glass—"Helping people is something I have to do—for myself even more than for the beneficiary."

Jigger observed, "A salvationist, huh?"

Leighton shrugged. "Call it what you will."

JIGGER said, "What's the point of all the candor, Leighton?"

"I want you to help me," Leighton's tongue sounded a little thick. "How can I help you?"

"Get me out of this terror—Find the one who murdered Susan, before the police."

"Before the police find out that you're involved, you mean."

"Yes, I mean that." There was a brief flickering of hope in Leighton's face. "If the murderer were found quickly, I could perhaps be kept out of it."

It was a trace of the man of affairs again; the man of influence on the private wires of newspaper editors, the celebrity seeking special favors of the police.

Jigger said, "That's a large order. I'd have to start out believing you didn't murder Susan Hunter."

"I swear I didn't murder her."

What was the basis for Arens' blackmail?"

"Originally, my affair with Susan Hunter, whom he knew as Sally Woods. He often saw me in her company—He'd create drunken scenes, follow us around jealously."

Jigger grinned. Proof here that every man must seek out his successor. Leighton continued bitterly. "When she was found murdered in the apartment she had engaged as Anne Brown, Arens demanded more substantial sums than before, in return for shielding me from a police inquiry. He kept deluging me with photographs in my morning mail."

"Photographs?"

"Those glossy prints you found in my file cabinet."

"How do you know Arens mailed them?"

Leighton frowned. "I don't know—But who else? Keeping me in a perpetual fright was one way of insuring that I'd pay blackmail."

"Whose idea was blackmail through the sale of oil paintings?"

"Arens'. With the murder, he insisted on 'right' form of tribute instead of just cash. I had to agree. I suppose it tickled his conceit to boast about a wealthy connoisseur and collector purchasing him, and for important sums of money. So, I bought his trash, and burned it."

Jigger stared at a rilly, and Leighton suddenly dissolved right before him. He found Leighton again and fixed his stare strongly on him—His mind was clouding as though in a few minutes it must go to sleep.

"Did Susan Hunter use the alias Anne Brown during her relations with you?"

"All the time."

"Who do you think murdered her?"

Leighton said thoughtfully, "Arens, as a rejected lover. Or her father, in 'right' form of tribute. With his daughter alive, he was vulnerable, and in danger. Also, huge sums were at stake."

"But you said her father believed her already dead—Killed in a fall from a bridge?"

"He later discovered that Susan was alive, and he was furious. Susan had telephoned him shortly before her murder—She was trying to dare the courage, to come out of hiding, live openly, resume her true identity."

Jigger nodded thoughtfully. The girl had telephoned her father—Leighton's disclosure tallied with Aunt Penny's testimony; it tallied too with the conflict of decision told in the girl's last writing in Professor Scott's group.

Jigger inquired, "What was her telephone conversation with her father?"

"She threatened to reappear publicly as Susan Hunter, denounce him, bring him to book for his crimes. Her father begged her to hold off, begged for a chance to make amends, begged for time to find a way to undo the frightful thing he'd done. He said he was remorseful, broken, guilt-ridden—But he was lying, of course, merely stalling for time—Time to arrange to murder her finally."

(To be continued)

Remember when?

Remember when you got a real, man-sized dip in your 5c ice cream cone?

It's a different story today!

Don't blame the ice cream man. Blame the dollar. It buys less today than ever before.

We are feeling the pinch, too.

The cost of supplies and equipment used in the telephone business is going up and up, just like the cost of supplies and equipment for other businesses.

In spite of this, we have been able to provide good, low-cost telephone service that continues to grow in value.

Even if it should cost more, your telephone service, in comparison with other things, would still be a big, big bargain.

Summer Program Is Under Way at Warren Y. M. C. A.

The Warren YMCA summer program got under way today, but the rifle season at the State Armory was postponed until Wednesday morning. Many of the boys who started this activity at camp are out to continue their shooting for advancements through the National Rifle Association program, nearly 175 boys having made advancements at the Lake Erie camp.

Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, there will be a trip to the Warren Fire Department by the boys' department members and a swimming session will follow in the pool.

Rifle instruction will start at the Armory Wednesday 9 a. m. until 12:00, and in the afternoon tennis classes will be held from 1 to 3 for cadets and juniors.

On Thursday, the craft shop will open at 9 a. m. for work on lanterns, metal ashtrays, candy dishes, wood burning, model building, and leather. A fishing hike with a cook out lunch will highlight Friday's program in the morning and a full length movie will fill out the evening schedule at 7:30 o'clock.

An archery session is on for Saturday morning for boys coming to camp or for any newcomers. Boys wishing to sign up, however, must first get the necessary information from the boys' department leader.

In the near future dates will be announced for trips to Pittsburgh to see some of the Pirates' baseball games, and also for canoe trips to be headed up by Robert Cowden and Paul Mutsaers for the older boys. Plans for this special summer program are being worked out now.

on cigarettes, beer, liquor, inheritances and corporations. The compromise committee has already shown Fine the proposed alternate program, but the governor has adopted a "hands-off" attitude until Republican legislators have had an opportunity to examine it.

The governor signed a bill Saturday increasing expense allowances of members of the legislature from $1200 to $1800 a year but withheld most of the money until the assembly provides the revenue.

He refused to approve an appropriation of $232,200 for payment of the expense increase for the present biennium, but said there is sufficient money left from a previous appropriation to pay the $300 increase due July 1.

Sen. John M. Walker, senate Republican floor leader, who said he was inclined to agree with the governor on the matter of legislative expense money.

Fine will invade Walker's home city of Pittsburgh tonight to make a series of radio talks, seeking "back home" support for his tax program. The governor also will appear on a television program there.

In a weekend statement, Fine said he believed the senate "ultimately" would reject "it was a mistake" to block the income tax or any "base" tax.

Akeley Bat Mill Destroyed By Fire

The Akeley Bat Mill was heavily damaged by fire of undetermined origin Saturday night about 10 o'clock.

The flames virtually destroyed the corrugated steel and wood building, but heaviest damage was done to the machinery, including a large electric motor, a gasoline-powered motor, a new saw and a lathe. A second lathe was damaged but possibly may be saved.

No estimate of the damage will be available until after the insurance adjuster makes a check of the machinery. According to reports, the machinery was insured, but no insurance was carried on the building.

The mill was operated by Irvin H. Norton, and turned out rough bolts which were sent to the McLaughlin and Millard company for manufacture of baseball bats.

Twenty-seven members of the Russell Volunteer Fire Department responded to the alarm, and battled the flames with water from their two booster tanks. Norton praised the firemen for their good work in quickly bringing the flames under control.

The plant is located on the Klanton road, just north of the Route 62 intersection.

negotiations would open Tuesday and named the Allied and Red negotiators, but made no comment.

Communist representatives at Kaesong will be Gen. Hsieh Chang and Gen. Tung Hua of the Chinese Army, and Gen. Nam Il and Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho of the North Korean Red forces.

Groundwork for the armistice talks was laid Sunday, also at Kaesong.

Liaison groups representing both sides held a stiffly formal meeting in a once palatial home in the Red-held city.

Col. Andrew J. Kinney, U. S. Air Force, who headed the U. N. delegation Sunday, said the preliminary meeting was a "100 per cent success."

Another envoy indicated, however, that there were a number of disagreements that had to be ironed out. He said there were several times when he thought the talks would fall through.

The U. N. delegation to the full scale talks probably will fly by helicopter from Munsan about 9 a. m. (6 p. m. Monday, EST). There has been no announcement of when the Red delegation will arrive, or how it will travel.

Mme. Muairon is a concierge, a combination supervisor, janitor and keeper of the peace of one of the city's apartment houses, and her tenants and friends all voted to give her the honor.

Betsy is lifting a 300-pound pail of rocks and by means of the chemical, metal pieces cling to a piece of silicone rubber, center, and are able to form a bond stronger than the tough rubber itself.

The pig is symbolic of the number of pounds of additional pork which can be made available through better feeding methods but which some contend might be destroyed by present price controls.

Merchants Top the Leaders, Lose Two Other Weekend Tilts

Warren Merchants beat Sherman, N. Y., under the lights at Sherman Saturday night, but lost two other weekend games.

The scores were:

Hydrotown 7, Warren Merchants 3 (played Saturday afternoon at the State Hospital field).

Merchants 12, Sherman 3.

Westfield 15, Merchants 11 (played Sunday afternoon at Westfield).

The win over Sherman was quite a feather in the Merchants' cap, since the New Yorkers went into the game holding the lead in the Penn-York League.

Snead and Bulla Win Exhibition

Sammy Snead, PGA champion, and Johnny Bulla, teamed to win the best-ball best total exhibition match over Sam Urzetta of Rochester, and Toby Lyons, pro of the Moon Brook Country Club, at the Moon Brook course yesterday. A crowd of between 3500 and 4000, largest turnout in history of the club, watched the match.

Snead and Bulla each toured the course in 72 and 73, while Lyons posted a 72 and Urzetta a 73.

Most sensational shot of the exhibition was credited to Urzetta on No. 13. Sam had a 130-yard approach in the deep rough with a down hill lie and the ball stopped about eight feet from the pin. Snead was in his usual magnificent form but did contribute the only out-of-bounds drive of the day on No. 13, stroking to the right and hitting a car parked on the fairway. He took a 5. On the 597-yard No. 11, the Stammer blasted a 300-yard drive to give the gallery a thrill.

The short clipping of Lyons and Urzetta was an outstanding feature.

A golf clinic, with all four of the contestants participating, preceded the exhibition match.

Jimmy will be sent to a southern club in the St. Louis farm system for experience, after which he is expected to be transferred to Allentown.

Cardinal scouts who conducted the school said there were several other likely prospects who attended the school, and that two or three others may be signed in the near future.

Commission Sets Hunting Seasons For Pennsylvania

Harrisburg, July 9.—(AP)—The State Game Commission has disclosed game and fur seasons for 1951 which include a two-day statewide antlerless deer season Dec. 14 and 15.

The antlerless season follows the close of the antlered deer season which extends for 11 days from Dec. 3 to 13.

The commission said the bag limit would again be limited to one deer. It added, however, that complete rules and regulations for the season will not be announced until the General Assembly acts on pending changes in game laws.

For the first time this year bows and arrows are authorized for hunting. They may be used to bag mule deer with two or more points from Oct. 15 to 27, according to a new state law. A special $2 archery license will be required.

New dates for bear hunting also were announced. They are from Nov. 19 to Nov. 24. Hunters are limited to a single bear a season. Hunting parties of three or more may shoot up to two a day but not more than two for the season.

On small game, the commission said cottontail rabbits, squirrels and ringneck pheasants may be hunted during the full season from Nov. 1-30. The bag limit is four a day and 20 for the season for rabbits and squirrels and two and eight for pheasants.

The season for bobwhite quail, partridges and ruffed grouse extends from Nov. 1 through 17. Limits are four a day and 12 for the season for bobwhites; partridges, two and eight; and grouse, two and six.

Only one wild turkey may be taken by a hunter during Nov. 1 through 30. Nine counties will be closed to turkey hunting—Adams, Armstrong, Fayette, Greene, Mercer, Somerset, Venango, Westmoreland, and York. In addition parts of Cambria, Cumberland and Franklin counties are closed.

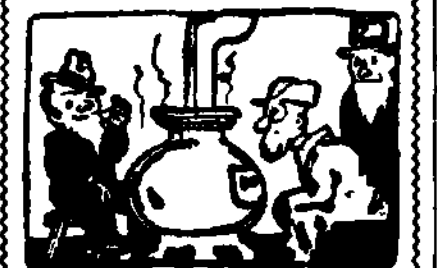

The season for snowshoe rabbits is Dec. 24 through Jan. 1. The bag is two a day and six for the season.

Raccoons may be taken, shot or trapped, from Oct. 15 through Feb. 1, 1952, with a season limit of 40.

Crackles remain unprotected but they may not be hunted in October.

There will be no open season on hen pheasants, cub bears, elk and spike bucks.

Work Bee Is Slated

A full turnout of Warren Field and Stream Club members is asked for a work bee at the Warr-Penn picnic area on the Morrison Run road.

The work bee will get under way at 6:30 o'clock. The work to be done is the cleaning of the bottom of the Warr-Penn pool preparatory to placing sand and gravel in the pond so it may be used for swimming.

A big group of sportsmen turned out last Thursday night and were successful in raising the gate. The pool is now completely drained. Those reporting tonight will need boots and hoes or potato hoes.

Thirty-nine per cent of Idaho's area is forest land.

Ludlow Wildcats Edge Jamestown

Ludlow Wildcats punched across two runs in the eighth inning to nip the Jamestown Legion, 3-2, in a tight game played before a large crowd at Wildcat park in Ludlow yesterday afternoon.

Swanson started on the mound for Ludlow, but gave way to Dean Whitaker in the seventh. Whitaker turned in a neat bit of relief hurling, allowing the visitors one hit, to produce the victory.

After Ludlow had taken a 1-0 lead in the second, Jamestown combined a pair of doubles for one run in the fifth and used a walk and a single to produce another tally in the sixth.

Ludlow pounced on Ross, Jamestown hurler who replaced the starter, Olson, in the eighth. Thompson singled and took second on an error. Jiggs Jubon singled to score the tying run. Keith Vesling smacked a long double to clinch the victory.

YOU CAN PLAY THIS HAND MANY WAYS

Written for NEA Service

Today's hand was very hard to bid properly. Five diamonds would have been a somewhat easier contract to make, but four hearts wasn't bad even though the trump suit was fairly short. It's all right to get to game with only seven trumps in the combined hands provided that you know how to manage the trumps prudently.

When the hand was played, dummy won the first trick with the jack of spades. Declarer next laid down the ace and king of trumps, after which he led the nine of diamonds and let it ride to East's king.

East returned the queen of clubs, forcing out dummy's ace. Declarer then decided that he could afford to lead out another round of trumps as long as the diamonds had turned out so well. This was a fatal mistake.

Corry Man Is Held To Face Charge of 2d Degree Murder

Meadville—Alderman S. G. MacTarnaghan has ordered Francis L. Mason, 27, of Randolph township, held for the September term of court for second degree murder.

Mason had previously been held for court on an involuntary manslaughter charge when arraigned before Alderman MacTarnaghan on June 22. The alderman had withheld his decision on the second degree murder charge until he received a brief from Mason's counsel who had asked that charge be dismissed.

Police accuse Mason of beating to death his step-father, James B. Willis, 54, of Route 1, Guys Mills. Willis died of injuries which Coroner Luther J. King said resulted from blows struck in a fist-fight in the Willis home.

The alderman ruled: "In a charge of second degree murder, malice may be inferred by the violence of the beating. That is a matter for the jury to decide. The weighing of the evidence in a case of this sort is not permitted in the province of the committing magistrate and is for the jury only. Therefore, I order that Francis Lloyd Mason be bound over to the next session of court without bail."

Only the county judge may set bail in a murder charge. Mason's counsel, Attorney Gerald D. Prather, contended in his brief that "the use of fists falls within the ordinary rule that when death results in such a fight, the charge can be no greater than manslaughter. . . . When not committed with a deadly weapon, the intent must be closely felonious or death will be subject only to a charge of manslaughter. . . . Fists are deadly only by repeated and continuous blows applied to a defenseless and unresisting victim."

Letters to the Editor

We note with much interest the letters and sentiments expressed in regard to the boat races Sunday, July 1st and will say there is no wrong or evil in the races as they are a clean and wholesome sport, but there is great importance connected with the day on which they were held.

Within the pages of Holy Writ is the command, "Remember the Sabbath Day to keep it holy. Six days shalt thou labor, and do all thy work, etc."

We will grant there is work which must be done on the Sabbath, such as keeping utilities operating, heating units fired and such, but turning to Isaiah 58: 13, 14, God said "If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath, from doing THY pleasure on my holy day; and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord honorable; and shalt honor him, not doing thine own ways, nor finding thine own pleasure, nor speaking thine own words: Then shalt thou delight thyself in the Lord; and I will cause thee to ride upon the high places of the earth, and feed thee with the heritage of Jacob, thy father; for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it."

The commandment of God is definite and final and he has never modified his word to oblige the changing age or fancies of man. Most respectfully, Harry Campbell.

James Buchanan, 15th president of the United States, was a Federalist. His successor, Lincoln, was a Republican.

Notice is hereby given that the First, Final and Distribution Account of Alice Schwing Leidig, Guardian of Edith L. Schwing, will be presented to the Court of Common Pleas for confirmation on July 24th, Nineteen Hundred and Fifty One at ten o'clock A. M.

Knapp and a number of other Youngsville relatives, as well as Paul Reynolds' parents and others for dinner on the Fourth and during the evening.
